AT HARBOR GRACE.

Particulars of the Recent Faction Riot and Bloodshed.

The Orangemen, Unarmed, Driven from the Field After the First Fusillade—Five Killed and Many Wounded.

St. John's, N. F., Dec. 29.—A late evening dispatch has just been received from Harbor Grace, giving fuller particulars of the disastrous riot of last Wednesday. It states that nearly all the week as Christmas preparations had been made by the Roman Catholics to celebrate the intentions of the Orangemen to walk in procession through the chief streets of the city. During Monday, men could be seen carrying flags and making threatening gestures standing in little knots at the corners of streets or in groups in public houses. It was evident that a storm was brewing. Nothing occurred during the day, however, except a trivial altercation on a street fight. Toward night, when the mob was disposed to become more lawless and demonstrative, the influence and authority of the magistrates, police and prominent citizens, were not able to induce the excited crowds to disperse.

Monday night and Tuesday passed tranquilly. The Orangemen, however, determined to exercise their right to march through the city with any badge or banner they chose, and with any music, drums, whistles, which they chose to parade. The Roman Catholics had sworn that if they marched through the city as Orangemen and with Orange regalia they should march through their own blood. The society of Loyal Orangemen met about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at its usual meeting place, the British hall. Here they revised their programme and acted themselves in the uniforms of the association. There was no lack of flags and banners, badges, effigies and the usual paraphernalia. Bands of music followed the march. The society left the grounds at 10:30 o'clock and marched to the Wesleyan church where they attended a divine service and listened to the morning sermon. At 12:30 they began their march through the principal streets. At Shiphead they were suddenly brought face to face with an armed body of from 200 to 250 men. These men formed a motley array, and had no equipment for their warfare excepting guns, shot, pickets and bludgeons of various sizes. They carried a large green flag with the Irish harp floating over their heads. They did not utter a single word of menace or challenge, but waited coolly and defiantly until they came into close quarters with the Orangemen. The inspector of police, who was in the neighborhood at the time, came between the hostile bodies, but was instantly knocked down by the blow of a heavy picket. He was carried in a state of unconsciousness to his home by some spectators. Immediately the vanguard of the attacking party discharged seven guns heavily charged with lead, and into the midst of the Orange ranks. Five men were killed almost instantly. Five more are believed to be wounded beyond hope of recovery. Their names are Thomas Nicholas, Solomon Martin, William Browne, William Anthony and Moses Nicholas. It is now stated that there are not less than twenty-one others wounded. The Orangemen were not armed, and made no show of fight, but fled in every direction. The whole encounter was not over three minutes. The police, who had the Orangemen been armed and resented the assault the tragedy must have expanded into terrible proportions. Two Catholics did not pursue their retreating foes, but contented themselves with undisciplined possession of the bloody field. All the houses in the city were suspended and stores closed and blinds drawn over the windows of the houses. The police have been very active and have arrested six of the ringleaders. These are: Thomas Nicholas, William Browne, William Anthony and Moses Nicholas, and a woman who shot John Jones dead and wounded William Martin, has fled, but the police have got upon his trail.

Arrested for Murder.

BEVERLY, W. Va., Dec. 29.—The coroner's inquest over the bodies of the Somersfield family, who were murdered and afterwards burned in their home on the 11th inst., after a searching investigation of five days' duration, has brought in a verdict of murder, and charge John C. Flanagan with the crime. As soon as the verdict was reached, a warrant was issued for Flanagan, and he was surprised and arrested, and is now in jail at this place. Flanagan is a married man, aged about 30, but has for some time been a frequent visitor at Mrs. Somersfield's home, and it is known the two had a violent quarrel on the Saturday evening before the bloody tragedy was enacted. The woman had told a neighbor that Flanagan had proposed to kill her. Flanagan protests his innocence, but the evidence against him is strong.

The proposals have been made to prominent Irish workers in various parts of the country, with what success is not known. The matter has been kept quiet, but leaked out accidentally. Thompson has not been regarded as a "crank" on any subject.
